CADETS REAR MONUMENT TO "MOTHER OF INSTITUTE"

Memorial to Miss Margaret Warwick Freeland in Hollywood to Be Dedicated To-morrow Afternoon.

Simple services will mark the dedication to-morrow afternoon at 5 o'clock of the memorial erected in Hollywood Cemetery to Miss Margaret Warwick Freeland, "Mother of V. M. I." The dedicatory services will be conducted by the Rev. Peyton Craighill, of Barton Heights, assisted by Colonel W. W. LaPrade, of this city, who knew and loved "Miss Maggie" when she was a student at the "West Point of the South," Mrs. E. D. Hotchkiss will also assist.

The monument was reared by the boys of V. M. I. and by a few others, who had come under Miss Freeland's kindly care. Subscriptions were limited to $1, and, though individual subscriptions were limited to such a small amount, a sufficiently large sum, $25,000, was raised. The monument is a handsome white marble shaft in the memory of the woman whose life was hallowed by the love of boys and her ministrations to their spiritual and physical wants.

Miss Freeland was born in Richmond on July 8, 1846, the daughter of John and Rosalie Freeland. When a young girl she moved to Lexington, to be near her brother, who was then a cadet at the Virginia Military Institute, and there she spent the rest of her life. She died in Lexington on May 13, 1908, and was laid to her rest on the forty-fourth anniversary of the battle of New Market, renowned and remembered for the cadets who marched so gallantly from their study halls, and died so gallantly on the firing line.

Up to the time of her death, "Miss Maggie" was mother to all the cadets their comforters in distress and their pleasers in joy.

Negro Held as Fugitive. Larry Gray, colored, was arrested yesterday by Detective-Sergeants Anderson and Anderson on the charge of being a fugitive from justice in Cape Charles, Va. He is believed to be the man who escaped from jail while awaiting trial in the case of John Lewis Smith, commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, on a charge of felony.

ATTAKISSON CHARGED WITH FORGING NAME

Real Estate Man Accused of Placing M. S. Wilshire's Signature on Negotiable Note.

L. W. Attakisson, a young real estate man, has been arrested several times on charges of passing worthless checks, was arrested yesterday by Detective-Sergeants Anderson and Anderson on the charge of forging the name of M. S. Wilshire, a negotiable note for $100, dated February 1, 1914.

Wilshire discovered the alleged forgery yesterday, and promptly reported the matter to Captain of Detectives McMahon. Following a consultation, he decided to swear out a warrant for the arrest of Attakisson, and in a short time they found Attakisson standing in front of the Mutual Building, Ninth and Main Streets. He said at the time, according to the officers, if he was permitted to do so he would at once repay the money involved.

However, he was taken to the First Police Station, where he was afterwards released in the sum of $500 by Magistrate J. J. McFarland, and he is now on his way to the city of New York.

Edith's Estate $178,000. J. J. Gooden and the Virginia Trust Company, as executors of A. B. Edith, the estate is valued at $178,000.

BROAD STREET MERCHANTS WILL DECORATE STORES

Elaborate Preparations Being Made for Convention of Villed Prophets, Which Meets Here June 8.

Under the leadership of E. C. Pelouze, a committee representing Sam's Grotto, Villed Prophets, made a tour of a portion of the business section of Broad Street yesterday, and in a few hours time secured fifty signatures of merchants to an agreement to decorate their places of business for the twenty-fifth annual convention of the Mystic Order of Villed Prophets, of the Enchanted Realm, which will be held in this city beginning Monday, June 8, and closing on Wednesday night, June 10.

Indications are that every business house on Eighth Street from the Academy of Music to Broad Street will be decorated, as will be the stores on either side of Broad Street to Elba Station. The parade, which will take place on Tuesday, June 9, promises to be one of the most unique of any heretofore held. It will traverse Franklin and Grace Streets, and the local bunting and pennants be used as decorations in the residential section. It will be impossible for the committee-men to see every resident of the section, along which the parade will move, and they hope, when the day is being made to break the record made in Springfield, Mass., last year, when 3,700 were registered.

The probability is that 4,000 accredited delegates will be in attendance at the June convention, as every effort is being made to break the record made in Springfield, Mass., last year, when 3,700 were registered.

Will Volunteer for Service. Adjutant-General W. W. Sale has received a notification from James J. Clark, a resident of Pittsburgh, Pa., that he is willing to serve in the United States Army.

GINTER PARK INSTALLS MODERN FIRE ENGINE

Progressive Suburb Buys First-Class Piece of Motor Equipment.

WILL REDUCE INSURANCE RATES

New Engine Given Test in Competition With City's Largest Automobile Fire-Fighter.

Profiting by the experience of its big neighbor, the town of Ginter Park will have nothing except motor apparatus in its new fire department. The first of its equipment—a seventy-horsepower Knox combination engine, a duplicate of the largest one owned by the city of Richmond—has been received from the factory and was given its first test yesterday afternoon. It will be given another try-out to-day, and if it meets the standard set by the city engine, it will be accepted.

Ginter Park is nothing if not progressive. When the establishment of a fire department was brought up, the Town Council decided that it would be the wisest course to buy the best on the market, and after a consultation with Chief Joyner, of the Richmond Fire Department, that the Council purchased the motor engine.

A powerful machine, capable of making fifty miles an hour, it will throw a stream of water over the City Hall tower. Its pumping capacity is 800 gallons a minute, and it is large enough to cope with any fire which might occur in the progressive suburb.

The new fire house, at the corner of Chamberlayne Avenue and Maplewood Street, has been completed, and the engine will be housed there. It is formally accepted by the town, and will have quarters in the fire house, and will be ready for duty at all hours.

The new engine is identical with the last one purchased by the city, and was built by the same concern. The engines have given great satisfaction here. They are a combination affair, having chemical pumps, ladders and hose. The Ginter Park machine cost approximately $8,000.

There is an adequate water system in Ginter Park to make the use of the new engine feasible. The plugs are conveniently situated in all parts of the town, and the pressure is good.

Among the other improvements being made in Ginter Park is that of paving many of the principal streets. Chamberlayne Avenue is being treated with asphalt paving, and concrete curbs and gutters are being put in all through the town.

Another test of the automobile engine will be made to-day. Mayor W. D. Duke and members of the Town Council will be present to watch it work. It will be taken to William Byrd Park, where it will be given a full action. Yesterday it was driven around the city and was tested out at several different points. The only distinction between it and the local apparatus is the name neatly lettered on the side.

Mayor Duke jokingly informed the local fire authorities yesterday that his town was tired of seeking help for the fire department, and was now in a position to reciprocate.

P. H. DILLARD IS PICKED TO SUCCEED CAMPBELL

Talk, However, of Abolishing Judicial Circuit Comprising Bedford and Franklin Counties.

Many prominent lawyers of Bedford and Franklin Counties visited Governor Bland yesterday in the interest of the various candidates who have been mentioned to succeed Judge J. Lawrence Campbell, of the Thirtieth Judicial Circuit, who died recently. The two men most prominently mentioned for the vacant judgeship are: P. H. Dillard, of Henric, and Hunter Miller, of Bedford County.

A few of the fact that Judge Campbell was a resident of Bedford County, the Franklin County delegations are confident that a candidate from their county will be successful. According to the statutes of Virginia, a judge is empowered to appoint a judge to fill the vacancy on the bench of this circuit until the meeting of the General Assembly in 1916, when Judge Campbell's successor will be elected.

There is a movement on foot among the judges of the bar of the judicial circuit to have the Thirtieth Judicial Circuit, which consists of Franklin and Bedford Counties, abolished. Governor Bland has received several letters since the death of Judge Campbell asking that he postpone indefinitely the appointment of a new judge, simply designating judges from other circuits to hold court in Bedford and Franklin until the question of the abolition of the circuit can be brought up before the next General Assembly.

The Governor has given no indication of his own attitude in the matter, but it is believed that he is not inclined to do so. The General Assembly would consent to the abolition of this circuit and the merging of Bedford and Franklin with other existing circuits before it.

From information reaching the Capital it appears that P. H. Dillard, of Franklin, is leading in the contest for the vacant judgeship. Among those who called on the Governor yesterday to urge the appointment of Mr. Dillard were Judge N. H. Hairston, of Roanoke; Congressman Saunders, of the Fifth Congressional District; Judge J. W. Lee, and State Senator George T. Elson.

The members agreed to have twenty men present at the next meeting if possible.

MONUMENTAL CHURCH OBSERVES CENTENNIAL

Structure Erected in Memory of Theatre Holocaust Now One Hundred Years Old.

GREAT CROWD ATTENDS SERVICES

Grandson of Dedicator Preacher Declares Anniversary Address—Urges Return to Gospel Preaching.

As on a night 100 years ago to the hour, a people gathered to dedicate a church built and consecrated to the memory of seventy-two persons who perished in the old Richmond Theatre holocaust, so last night a large number of varied belief filled the Monumental Church to celebrate the centennial of that dedication. From the same pulpit from which his grandfather, the Rev. W. H. Wilmer, D. D., delivered the dedicatory sermon, the Rev. C. Breckenridge Wilmer, rector of St. Luke's Church, in Atlanta, Ga., delivered a second memorial sermon, and among those who listened to him were the descendants of those who had listened to the elder Wilmer. It was fitting that this should be, for as the elder Wilmer had been familiar with the story of the erection and upbuilding of the monument, so was the grandson familiar with the history of the church since its foundation. And as on that night 100 years ago a whole people laid reverence to a mutual holocaust, so last night a whole people, irrespective of creed, came to the second memorial occasion.

The church was crowded from chancel to door, and every seat in the gallery occupied. Many, unable to gain entrance, stood on the outside, hearing an occasional word of the powerful sermon which Dr. Wilmer preached, and drinking in to the full the sacred songs which floated out to them, and the words of faith that fell when the church doors were opened, nor did the crowd from coming, nor drive those who remained on the outside away.

CHANCEL DECKED WITH PALMS, FERNS AND FLOWERS

Green palms and ferns and white flowers adorned the chancel and the rail and the panel picture of Christ arising from the dead. In the choir seats sat fifty choristers, who had lent services to the occasion. Altogether, even without the message of Dr. Wilmer and the music, it was an occasion as will be remembered by all who were in the church, and a sacred ceremonial significant of the unity of Richmond people.

State and city officers assembled in the congregation and in the chancel, the Rev. J. W. Morris, who assisted in the services, were the Revs. S. Roger Taylor, Dr. J. B. Kellum and Bishop J. Dudley Powers and W. Russell Howell.

The services opened with the professional anthem, "Unfold, Ye Portals." The congregation stood with reverent hearts as the white-vested choir marched slowly up the aisle, and the vestry following, and then the congregation joined in the singing of that familiar church hymn, "The Church's Foundation." William G. Robertson, who acted as soloist, and the solo parts were sung by Miss Currie V. Calver, Ralph Ludwig and Mrs. L. B. Slaughter. Dr. Wilmer preached for more than an hour and a half, but his sermon was a masterpiece of life and power and so much after the exhortation of the day, that the congregation remained with him to the end, unwearied and still attentive. The preacher once humorously exalted the length of his discourse on the grounds that it was an occasion that came only once in a hundred years.

After reviewing the history of the church, Dr. Wilmer launched into an original source of the church return to the gospel rather than the preaching of the church in a theological mold. He said that the tendency had been in latter years to build a church, to substitute the Christ for substance and to build a dogma for universal faith. He held that it must still be regarded as the duty of the church to continue the work of evangelizing the world, to support missions and to build such a church as would answer every human need. The church that looked to itself alone, he said, cannot help it; it must follow and carry out the principles of the gospel, and would be its own salvation and aid others in attaining heaven. He described the church as being much like a political party, which binds the people to it so long as it remains steadfast to its trust and lives up to the principles of unselfish love and benefit for all, but which falls on its own self and ends as a party.

An offertory was taken up for the Monumental Church endowment fund and the services closed with the recessional hymn, "All Hail the Power of Jesus's Name."

THREE VOLUNTEER

Richmond Physicians Place Their Services at County's Disposal.

Dr. Mark W. Peyser, secretary of the Richmond Academy of Medicine and Surgery, reported yesterday the names of three physicians of this city who have responded to the appeal of the American Red Cross Society for volunteering their services for immediate assignment to work with the American troops in Mexico. The names of the volunteers are Dr. J. W. Turman, Dr. J. B. Kellum and Dr. A. E. Turman.

The Red Cross medical committee of the academy recently reported to the Red Cross headquarters that there are 200 medical men in Richmond available for service in Mexico on short notice.

CITY WILL ENTERTAIN HIGHWAY ASSOCIATION

Council Committee Apportions $750 for Newly Organized Rural Road Improvement League.

INVITE METHODISTS HERE IN 1918

Governor Stuart, Lay Delegate to Oklahoma City General Conference, to Present Richmond's Invitation.

The Council Committee on Advertising and Enterprises last night voted to make an appropriation of $750 to the entertainment of the Rural Road Improvement League, a new highway improvement association founded this year, with J. Shepherd Potts, of Richmond, editor of Southern Progress, as chief organizer. Mr. Potts is president of the league.

As a member of the committee on April 23 Mr. Potts put in a request for $1,000, representing to the committee that the convention which the league proposes to hold in this city May 29 to 31 will attract 200 or more members of the Federal reserve bank, is of deeper significance to Richmond than any other pending movement. An auditing committee, consisting of President Adams, of the Board of Aldermen, and Councilman Rogers, was appointed to supervise the expenditure of the appropriation.

The committee passed unanimously resolutions inviting the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, which meets this week in Oklahoma City, to hold its next annual conference in Richmond. The body will meet next in 1918. A letter conveying the same invitation was delivered to the conference yesterday by Mayor Ansley.

Governor Stuart, who is one of the Virginia lay delegates to the conference, will leave for Oklahoma City on Thursday, and will probably present to that body Richmond's invitation. The Governor is down in the conference program for an address.

INDICTMENTS RETURNED AGAINST MILLER AND WIFE

Grand Jury Finds True Bill in Diamond Robbery Case.

IS CHARGED WITH BURGLARY

Negro Said to Have Entered Dormitory of St. Joseph's Orphan Asylum. Other True Bills Found.

Indictments charging grand larceny were returned yesterday by the Hustings Court grand jury against Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Miller, who are held by the authorities for the alleged theft of a diamond stud valued at $450 from Jacob Kirsh. The couple were arrested about two weeks ago upon complaint lodged by Mr. Kirsh, and are being detained for trial. They have so far been unable to furnish bail.

According to the police, Miller's statements of the case in which the man and woman are involved in Richmond are peculiar. It appears that Mr. Kirsh and Mrs. Miller enjoyed an evening stroll in Capitol Square, and that they parted, Mr. Kirsh found that his diamond stud was missing. He reported the matter to the police, who made a search for the woman, finding her at the Richmond Hotel. This, however, was not among her effects buried in a jar of cold cream. Mr. Miller's only connection with the case, so far as the police have made public, is the fact that he was registered at the hotel as the woman's husband. Mrs. Miller set up the claim that the stud was loaned to her by Kirsh.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Miller have been more or less uncommunicative since their arrest. They have employed Attorney Benjamin Lovenstein to defend them.

Twelve True Bills Returned.

Twelve other true bills were returned by the grand jury yesterday as follows:

Guy Brown, James Evans and Edwin Anderson, robbery. The defendants are charged with attacking G. W. Jones with a baseball bat on March 19, and robbing him of $55.

William Frayer, grand larceny; James Flowers, malicious wounding; Troy Harris, housebreaking; Alvin Kirsh, grand larceny; Edgar Morgan, malicious wounding; Clarence Mintz, forgery; Granville Perkins, malicious wounding; Little Wood, malicious wounding; James Willis Smith, alias "Dark Night," housebreaking.

A true bill charging burglary was returned against Henderson Taylor, who was arrested on April 28 for entering the dormitory of the Sisters of Charity of St. Joseph's Academy and Orphan Asylum, 312 North Fourth Street. The negro, who is charged, climbed a back porch leading to the dormitory, which is on the third floor, and entered through the window. He was discovered by Sister Marie standing by her bed. Her screams frightened the intruder away. Taylor was arrested by the police shortly afterwards.
